

Interpersonal Violence Prevention Health Educator
Health Enhancement
Northern Illinois University

Required:

A Master's degree in health education/promotion, public health, counseling, student affairs, women's studies, social work or related field.

Experience with primary and secondary preventive intervention initiatives with special emphasis in interpersonal violence prevention education.

Knowledge or experience in evaluation and outcome assessment.

Demonstrated commitment to diversity and ability to work in a multicultural environment.

Ability to prepare and deliver educational programs and materials pertinent to college students.

Excellent written and verbal communication skills.

Ability to work occasional evenings and weekends.

Preferred:

Experience with peer [theater] education.

Experience in a college or university setting.

Knowledge of student development theory.

Proficient in a variety of computer software applications (e.g., Microsoft Office, Excel, PowerPoint, etc.)

Responsibilities:

In addition to assisting with the daily operations and activities of Health Enhancement, the Interpersonal Violence Prevention (IVP) Health Educator include coordinating prevention education, training, and services related to sexual assault, relationship violence and stalking. S/he will provide technical assistance, strategic planning and evaluation of interpersonal violence prevention education for the department.

Additionally, s/he will collaborate with other university departments in the development, implementation, evaluation, and improvement of programs, services and policies designed to promote a safe and healthy campus community. Additional content areas may be assigned.

Materials:

Send letter of application addressing position requirements, qualifications, resume/vita, and names, addresses, e-mails and phone numbers of three current professional references who have supervised you or have direct knowledge of your work, to:

Linda Novotny Roth
Health Enhancement, EF 139
Northern Illinois University
DeKalb, Illinois 60115-2879
Email: novotny@niu.edu

Contact Name: Linda Novotny Roth

Phone: 815-753-9755

Closing Date: Review of complete applications will begin on April 15, 2009, and continue until filled.

A pre-employment criminal background investigation for this position is required.
Northern Illinois University is an Equal Employment Opportunity/Affirmative Action institution.