

Washington University in St. Louis

Assistant Director for Sexual Assault and Community Health Services

Washington University in St. Louis seeks to fill its newly created position of the Assistant Director for Sexual Assault and Community Health Services to begin during the 2009-10 academic year. This person, who reports to the Assistant Vice Chancellor and Director of the Habib Health and Wellness Center, will be responsible for directing campus-wide prevention and response efforts focused on sexual and relationship violence. The Assistant Director will work closely with campus partners (including Judicial Affairs, campus police, the Office of Health Promotion, Student Health Services, the Office of Overseas Studies, and relevant academic departments) and key community services and agencies to develop and implement a clear, student-centered crisis response protocol, design evidence-based violence prevention programming for students, and coordinate the efforts of active student groups. The Assistant Director will be expected to develop efforts that meet the needs of all survivors, including male survivors and those from LGBT, international, and other underrepresented populations on campus. Some evening hours are required.

Qualifications

Masters or terminal degree in public health, student affairs, social work, psychology, or a degree or certificate in gender studies, and significant experience working with sexual assault and relationship violence in a college setting. Applicants must possess superior writing and public speaking skills.

Interested candidates should visit the Washington University in St. Louis website at www.wustl.edu. Reference job code 091748. Applicants should send a detailed letter of interest, a current curriculum vitae or resume, and three professional letters of recommendation via attachment while completing the on-line application.

Washington University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. We encourage applications from women, members of ethnic minority groups, and disabled individuals.

The committee will review applications until the position is filled, but priority will be given to those received before July 15, 2009